February President's Message

Friends,

The month of January ended with Parshat Yitro, which contains the giving of the Ten Commandments. The month of February begins with Parshat Mishpatim, which contains many of the more detailed laws of civil interaction, including the famous "eye for an eye." The parshah starts off with the laws concerning the treatment of slaves. One can ask how the Torah permits the holding of slaves, given the almost universal abhorrence of this practice today. The answer that is usually given is that slavery was the norm in the ancient world – a code of law that outright prohibited slavery would have been too alien and never would have been accepted by the people at that time. One can ask if similar reasoning can be applied to other laws in the Torah that seem strange to us, or out of place with modern times. No less an authority than the Rambam suggested that the laws of animal sacrifice in the Temple were a concession G-d made to the ritual expectations of the day – it would have been too hard to ask the ancient Israelites to jump directly from pagan practices to the prayer and meditation that became the substitute for sacrifices in the Rabbinic period. Of course even the Rambam got into plenty of hot water with his peers for this point of view.

Later in Mishpatim we have the sentence that forms a key part of the Rabbinic view of abortion: "And if men strive together, and hurt a woman with child, so that her fruit depart, and yet no harm follow, he shall be surely fined, according as the woman's husband shall lay upon him." That the loss of the woman's fetus is not regarded as a capital offense, but rather one requiring monetary compensation, leads to the Rabbinic view that a fetus does not have the same status as a human being.

Some of the laws that I find most interesting are: "If you meet your enemy's ox or his donkey going astray, you shall surely bring it back to him again. If you see the donkey of him that hates you lying under its burden, you shall not pass him by; you shall surely release it with him." – hence it is commanded to come to the aid even of one's enemy. One can wonder if these laws are for the sake of one's enemy – that even an enemy has rights which we are bound to personally respect and uphold; or is it for the sake of the donkey – it is not the poor donkey's fault who he belongs to! Discuss amongst yourselves . . .

If we should come to the aid of our enemies, then so much more for our friends! Let me therefore take a few sentences to thank some of the many who help us all out behind the scenes at BHBI. For the last year and a half Laura Levinson has been sending out our yahrzeit reminders. Laura will soon be handing this important job over to Herb Spencer, who has graciously volunteered to continue. As many of you know, Laura has been recovering from heart valve replacement surgery earlier this Fall. Both she and Charles are doing well and are now moving into an apartment at their daughter's house. Our many thanks go to both Laura and Herb. The kiddush committee is now up to a contingent of four, with the addition of Andrea Paprocki. Andrea has already prepared her first kiddush for us last month, and all agreed it a very nice spread. Kol ha-kavod Andrea! Of course there is always room for additional volunteers, so don't be shy!

See you in shul,

Steve Teitel

WHAT'S WITH ADAR?

You may have noticed that this year there are 2 months of Adar. That's because this is a leap year for the Jewish calendar (and incidentally, it's also a leap year in the secular calendar). In Jewish leap years, we add an additional month of Adar so that there is a month called Adar I followed by a month called Adar II. In Ashkenazi custom, yahrzeits of individuals who pass away during a regular month of Adar are commemorated in Adar I. However, Purim is celebrated in Adar II and bar and bat mitzvahs of children born in a regular month of Adar are traditionally celebrated in Adar II as well.

Adar (or in leap years, Adar II) is considered a month of joy. Indeed, as the month progresses, we expect to encounter more and more joy and happiness. The joy of Adar culminates in the celebration of the miracle of Purim, which this year falls on Thursday evening and Friday, March 20th and 21st.

FEDERATION-SPONSORED PROGRAMS FOR YOUTH

Zikaron Trip of Remembrance

Teens are invited to apply for this terrific opportunity to travel with other teens to the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum in Washington, D.C. on Sunday, March 30th. On this one-day, Zikaron Trip of Remembrance, teens will travel to the Museum where survivors of the Holocaust will accompany them on a tour of the site. Teens will also be included in our community's Yom HaShoah commemoration in late spring. This program receives generous support from the Mona Friedman Kolko Family Fund. Applications are available on-line at <http://www.jewishrochester.org/getfile.asp?id=22528> and must be received by February 19th. For more information, contact Josh Boress at 461-0490 ext. 249 or by e-mail at jboress@jewishrochester.org

Gift of Israel Program

The Jewish Community Federation of Greater Rochester continues to sponsor the Gift of Israel Program which offers matching funds which can be applied for Israel trips by Jewish youth. Children can be enrolled in the program while they are between 3rd grade and 6th grade. Parents make an annual contribution to the program which is matched dollar for dollar by the Federation up to $150 annually. By joining the Gift of Israel Program, your child has the potential to receive matching funds of up to $1200 for a future Israel experience. For more information, contact Josh Boress at 461-0490 ext. 249 or by e-mail at jboress@jewishrochester.org

Scholarships for Youth Programs

In addition to Israel trips, funds may be applied to other upcoming Jewish travel experiences, Jewish high school programs, and college courses with Jewish content. Spring distributions will be made for programs to take place during the summer of 2008 or during the next academic year. The deadline for applications is March 23, 2008.
