May President's Message

Friends,

Our Simon Finkelman Memorial Lecture this past April was a great success. Those of you who were fortunate to attend, heard a real tour de force, as Prof. Paul Finkelman (Simon's son) enthralled the audience with his scholarly yet engaging discussion of why, in his view, the erection of Ten Commandments Monuments in public spaces is a clear violation of the Constitution's requirement of separation of church and state. Contrasting the different enumerations and translations of the Commandments between Jewish and various Christian traditions, and recounting events from the famous Alabama Ten Commandments Monument case in which he served as an expert witness, Prof. Finkelman touched on constitutional law, American society, religion, and history, while sprinkling in liberal doses of the well known Finkelman sense of humor. For those of you who missed the talk, my condolences, but take heart! The talk was so thoroughly enjoyed that we hope to invite Paul back for another lecture sometime in the future.

We begin May with yet another special event. On Sunday, May 5, at 10 am, BHBI will host the first session in our new Jewish-Muslim interfaith dialogue series, co-sponsored by BHBI, Temples Beth Am and Beth David, and the Turkish Cultural Center of Rochester. Our first meeting will address the topic, What do our different religious teachings say about our responsibility to work to improve the world? After brief presentations on the topic, the session will be opened to questions from the audience to a panel of community representatives. Rabbi Simeon Kolko will give the presentation representing the Jewish point of view. Following questions, refreshments will be served. We hope this series will serve as a welcoming and informal way to learn about each other's cultural perspectives and religious beliefs, while forming new bonds of friendship and respect between our respective communities. The dialogue series is open to the general public, so please spread the word and invite all to come. I hope to see you there!

In May we will also celebrate the holiday of Shavuot, commemorating the giving of the Ten Commandments at Mount Sinai. Services will be held jointly with Temple Beth Am, and in part with Temple Beth David. The holiday will start with our traditional Shavuot dinner at BHBI on Tuesday, May 14 at 6 pm, followed by Erev Shavuot service and study session. Please use the reservation form on page 4 of this Bulletin to let us know you are coming to the dinner. For the rest of the holiday services, please see the calendar on page 2 for times and locations.

Finally, our annual membership meeting will take place on Sunday, May 19, at 10 am (note the new time). Please come to vote in our new slate of officers and trustees. As always, you may send a written proxy for your vote with another member, but proxies do not count in making the quorum we need to conduct business. So please make all effort to attend!

See you in shul,

Steve Teitel
